

December 1, 2009

To whom it may concern,

I have had the pleasure of having both Operation Keepsake, Inc. and Planned Parenthood. During my tenure as a health teacher I have had Operation Keepsake and Planned Parenthood come to my classroom to teach sexual education concepts to my students. Some of the concepts are abstinence, dating and relationships, and dangers associated with sexually transmitted diseases. Operation Keepsake does an outstanding job connecting with my students and is very successful in getting students to understand the dangers of sex. Both programs do a great job, however Operation Keepsake's program excels because of how they go about education. Operation Keepsake is prepared, establishes great rapport with students, and captures students' interest with enthusiasm. They do this by a variety of ways: they do hands on activities with students, hold students interest by not only talking about abstinence but talking about all issues that surround teenagers dealing with pressures of sex and teenagers who are sexually active. I would recommend Operation Keepsake to any school that is looking to improve their sexual education curriculum.

Sincerely

Mr. Nicholas Conti
Health Educator
Warrensville High School